

Manor View Farm & Perennial Farm

15th Annual Education Seminar
February 21, 2014 9:00am - 3:30pm
(Check-in begins at 8:30am)

Dr. Allan Armitage

(Professor Emeritus University of Georgia)

Going Native?

Plants can be a big investment, thus the need to discuss the good and the bad in the plant world. Dr. Armitage will talk about perennials and especially native perennials that perform well in the Mid-Atlantic Region.

Wendy Brister

(Owner of Harvey's Gardens)

Edible

Landscapes... What could be more local & fresh!

Why not encourage your clients to grow some of their own food, you can't get more local! Edible plants don't need to be annuals and don't all require a lot of maintenance. Many have ornamental qualities, as well.

Steve Gable

(Manager of Merrifield Garden Center)

The Beauty of Ornamental Grasses:

Steve will talk about the use of ornamental grasses in the modern landscape and how the varieties have changed over the years. Today's grasses are not the same as those planted by your grandmother.

Dr. Bob Lyons

(Director of the Longwood Gardens Graduate Program)

Reconciling

Ornamental Plant Choices for the Cultivated Landscape:

Breeding breakthroughs, solid garden standards, and plants with untapped potential.
